

Being Pentecostal
Week 7: The Spirit in the Darkness
C. 501 – 1500
July 26th, 2023

ASKING QUESTIONS IN THE DARKNESS:

How open am I to the weirdness of the Holy Spirit?

Am I arrogant like the society surrounding the time frame of these transitional building blocks of the Pentecostal faith? How can one tell?

Do I show my operable faith by calling down superior powers?

Do I show my operable faith by fasting and praying?

Have I ever experienced the Holy Spirit helping me to live my faith outloud?

How do I live my worship of Christ around my family members?

Do I allow the Holy Spirit to enable leadership in me?

Do I share personal testimonies of what the Holy Spirit does in my life?

Do I encourage others to have personal experiences with the Holy Spirit?

Do I seek the Spirit? Ask Him to speak to me and use me?

Do I share my Jesus experiences?

What has the Holy Spirit enabled me to do? Am I doing it?

Sing a God Song?

Where do I park my ego and let the Spirit just do? [feelings, thoughts, I.Q.]

What has the Holy Spirit enabled me to do?

WHO defines darkness?

Is the Holy Spirit working within and through my life?

“Nearly every root of modern Pentecostalism can be traced back to the Middle Ages. While many kingdoms rose and fell, the one thing that remained strong and erect through it all was Christ’s church. “

Oliver, Jeff. (2017). Pentecost to the Present: The Holy Spirit's Enduring Work in the Church. Book one: Early Prophetic and Spiritual Gifts Movements. Page 150. Bridge-Logos.